

General Terms and Conditions (GTC)

These General Terms and Conditions apply exclusively for the symposium «400 Years of Botanical Collections – Implications for Present-Day Research» organized by the Herbaria Basel, Department of Environmental Sciences, University of Basel and the Basel Botanical Society.

The conference fees include the services specified in the participant registration. Travel expenses or costs for accommodation are not included.

With the payment of the conference fee, the enrollees acquire the right to participate in the individual events (e.g. plenary session, workshop) of the symposium. In case of non-participation in parts or the whole of the conference, the enrollees cannot claim any refund or partial refund of the conference fees from the organizers.

The organizers may refuse admission to the event if the conference fees have not been paid.

The organizers reserve the right to make changes to the program at short notice (venue, schedule, speakers, content) in the interest of quality assurance and/or the organization and feasibility of the event.

If the conference cannot be held on site due to factors beyond the influence of the conference organizers (Covid-19), it will be held online. Participants will be informed in due course and the conference fees will be adjusted.

The detailed cancellation policy is mentioned on the symposium website and is included here.

The Herbaria Basel (Department of Environmental Sciences, University of Basel) and the Basel Botanical Society reserve the right to cancel the conference in case of insufficient number of participants up to 2 weeks before the start of the conference. Conference fees already paid will be refunded in full.

For all conferences, Herbaria Basel (Department of Environmental Sciences, University of Basel) and the Basel Botanical Society exclude liability for damages caused by third parties, in particular theft, which may occur during the event. Participants are responsible for their own insurance coverage.

The place of jurisdiction is Basel. Swiss law is applicable for all legal relations.
